LET'S TALK ABOUT CLINICAL TRIALS

Thursday, May 20, 2021 | 4:00 pm–6:00 pm PT

Have you ever considered participating in a clinical trial? Do you have any questions, concerns, or hesitancy? Join us for this informational episode as we welcome dermatologist, Dr. Stephanie Le, who will guide us through what to expect as a clinical trial participant including types of clinical trials, common terminology, and various experiences. We will also have a Q&A session to hear your stories and answer your questions. We look forward to engaging with you!

FEATURED SPEAKER

Dr. Stephanie Le is a dermatology resident at the University of California, Davis. She has a long-standing interest in complex medical dermatology, which began as an undergraduate at the University of California, Los Angeles. More recently, Dr. Le completed a postdoctoral fellowship in immunology at the University of California, Davis under Dr. Emanuel Maverakis. At UC Davis, her research has focused on understanding the pathophysiology of immune-mediated diseases involving the skin. Dr. Le has expertise in analysis of large-scale datasets to study novel pathways and mediators of psoriasis, atopic dermatitis, and other inflammatory and autoimmune skin diseases. She has also worked on developing novel therapeutic regimens and improved outcome measures for rare immune-mediated diseases, especially pyoderma gangrenosum and bullous pemphigoid. As a clinician, Dr. Le focuses her energy on treating patients suffering from severe and complex immune-mediated skin diseases and is currently serving as principal investigator or sub-investigator for numerous clinical trials.

"Let's Talk" is a webinar series created by Drs. Angela Rodgers and Renee Thomason, two family medicine physicians who identify as women of color. The goal of the series is to provide women with support and resources related to the challenges and lifelong journey of living with alopecia with a focus on the psychosocial impact and prioritizing wellness. We celebrate the diversity of women from all cultures, identities, and lived experiences and recognize that although we do share the common thread of alopecia, our experiences may differ based on our background and that is what makes our community special. This is a sisterhood that offers belonging, cultural humility and real conversations on difficult topics.
